Ohio, other states ordered to tighten pollution controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is ordering 45 states to revamp their antipollution programs to meet federal standards, even though clean air plans have reduced pollution levels by 5 per cent annually.

Russell Train, who heads the Environmental Protection Agency, said Thursday that stricter compliance in meeting anti-emission levels will be needed to ensure that clean air is maintained in the United States.

The EPA formally notified 45 governors that their state plans were "substantially inadequate" to attain or maintain clean air standards in at least one antipollution area. Alaska, Mississippi, Florida, Hawaii and Oklahoma were not affected by the EPA directive.

The EPA order seeks to strengthen compliance with clean air standards regarding sulfur dioxide, oxides and carbon monoxide, photochemical oxidants, nitrogen dioxide and sulfur dioxide.

To correct inadequacies in state clean-air plans, "numerous small (pollution) sources in urban centers may require (stricter) controls," including efforts to go beyond smoke stack controls, the EPA said.

The EPA said a major problem in western states is windblown pollutants, such as dust from construction sites, unpaved roads and tilling of farmland.

"This problem will likely take many years to resolve due to the difficulty in implementing effective controls, but the EPA is initiating programs aimed at identifying solutions over the long term," said Train.

He said the limited information available on the pollution level caused by carbon monoxide and photochemical oxidants "indicates that the standards are being violated far less frequently than five years ago, in some cases as much as 50 per cent less."

Train's order directs 31 states to take new steps to meet the 1970 Clean Air Act standards for particulate matter; 12 states to revise sulfur dioxide standards; 22 states to revise carbon monoxide standards; 29 states to set new or more stringent standards for photochemical oxidants and three states to revise their nitrogen oxide standards.

Most states must change at least two standards.

Under Train's order, state regulators must submit new anti-emission plans no later than July 1, 1977. Other necessary regulatory measures, such as transportation improvements, must be submitted by July 1, 1978.

CHRISTMAS came early for a Record-Herald newspaper carrier . . .

Rick Calentine, 363 Ely St., a Record-Herald newspaper carrier for the past four and a half years, Friday received a letter and an early Christmas bonus from customers on Ely Street . . .

The Ely Street residents decided to express their appreciation to the youth now since he will be retiring from the route effective Friday because of school commitments . . .

The letter stated: "We, the undersigned, residents of Ely Street, wish to take this means of expressing our appreciation for the exceptionally fine job you have done in delivering the Record-Herald to us during the past four and one-half years. Many of us, who have lived here longer than that, can recall other boys who also did a good job in getting the paper to us regularly. However, you have been unusually prompt and conscientious and we want to compliment you on the business-like and courteous manner you have always displayed."

"Since ordinarily you would be losing out on our Christmas bonus to you this year, we want to take this opportunity to enclose with this letter a remuneration in appreciation for the six months' service you have already rendered."

The letter was signed "Your Ely Street friends and neighbors."

President Ford and his Republican challenger, Ronald Reagan, called Nixon at the hospital.

"It could be serious," a White House spokesman quoted Nixon as telling the President.

"They are very hopeful," Reagan quoted the former president as saying after Nixon was notified that her condition had stabilized.

"She had a stroke of maybe 35 to 50 per cent completeness," Mosier said Thursday. "We don't know if it will expand. At this point we don't know how permanent this may be." He said she was expected to remain hospitalized for at least 10 days.

Mrs. Nixon suffered the stroke Wednesday while reading, Mosier said. "She felt that she probably had a little stroke. She went up and went to bed. She didn't tell the other members of her family." But next morning the family "could tell when they saw her," and a doctor was summoned, he said.

An ambulance was called with instructions that there be no sirens.

Mrs. Nixon was being given no medication, hospital spokesmen said.

Mott Foundation grant announced

Community Education progress eyed

The Washington C.H. Community Education Advisory Council met Thursday in the Washington C.H. Middle School cafeteria to discuss the progress of the program, its current status and what it hopes to be.

Attending the meeting and addressing the group were the coordinator of community education for the Ohio Department of Education, a community education consultant for Ball State University, and Kaye Bartlett, chairman of the local advisory council.

Dr. George Wood, of Ball State University, Muncie, Ind., announced that the local program will receive $750 from the Mott Foundation within the next week. The Mott Foundation has contributed $5,000 to the Community Education program during its two and one-half year lifetime.

He said the foundation has helped initiate several community education programs throughout the United States. Its aim is help that communities make the greatest possible use of their own resources.

Community Education utilizes school buildings, resident experts in their field, and the talents of area residents to help each other create a better environment.

Dr. Thomas Hayden, community education coordinator, for the Ohio Department of Education, added that state personnel attempt to guide the communities by suggesting methods of approach which have been successful in other areas.

By working with the local community education leaders, the state representatives can aid in improving and expanding the program framework.

Both noted that a correctly administered community education program can make public facilities, especially schools, community centers for cultural, educational and recreational growth.

There is no reason why school buildings should be used only by residents under 21. Education is a never ending process which involves every member of the community.

KAYE BARTLETT reviewed the history of the Washington C.H. Community Education program.

Although the community gave birth to the concept in 1968, a move to initiate a program in that year died. It was reborn in March, 1973 when 20 civic leaders again focused on a comprehensive plan for a community program.

A director, Hank Shaffer, was employed in February, 1974, and the program officially came into existence. Since that time, it has offered classes in academic, art and hobby-type areas, has sponsored a variety of athletic cultural activities as well as directed the city's summer recreational program.

Thousands of persons have participated in the many facets of Community Education conducted in Washington C.H. and Fayette County.

The future of Community Education hinges on the continuing involvement of business and civic leaders, and the continuing interest of Fayette County residents.

IN AN attempt to better serve the local residents, Community Education is broadening its scope.

A special committee is to be formed under the chairmanship of Dr. Leroy Davis to increase the range of activities with which Community Education becomes involved.

One of its primary purposes is to support the efforts of other organizations whose projects parallel the goals and interests of the Community Education program.

Some very worthwhile programs in and around Washington C.H. have not received the backing and publicity which they deserve, Bartlett said. If Community Education can help in any way, it will attempt to do so, he added.

Bartlett and Shaffer also feel there is a need for greater communication between organizations. Several different clubs and organizations have projects which closely parallel each other. The committee will attempt to open lines of communication between the groups so that they may better coordinate their activities.

Shaffer feels Community Education is in an excellent position to do so because most area organizations have representatives within the program already. The wide range of membership on the advisory council offers a strong foundation for such an undertaking, he said.

Angry U.N. debate over Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Diplomats predicted today that the Security Council debate on the Israeli rescue of hijacked hostages from Uganda will produce some of the angriest confrontations seen at the United Nations since the 1973 Arab-Israeli war.

The debate opens this afternoon, and observers expected it to be lengthy. Most of the 40 black and Arab African nations were reported planning to address the council. However, the debate was not expected to produce any concrete action against Israel, Uganda or terrorism.

African countries were readying a resolution strongly condemning Israel and demanding that it compensate Uganda for all damage done in the raid. U.S. officials said the United States would veto any resolution condemning Israel.

Israeli Ambassador Chaim Herzog planned to accuse Ugandan President Idi Amin of collaborating with the Palestinian and German hijackers. Israeli officials said he would also argue that saving the lives of the passengers and crew of the Air France jetliner took priority over respect for Ugandan sovereignty.

But African, Asian and Communist governments were certain to block any attempt to censure Amin despite the contempt in which many of them hold him privately.

A Third World delegate, in a typical comment on the raid, said: "It was marvelous, the Israelis carried it off with such precision. But the violation of Ugandan territorial air was also terrifying. Think of the implications if every country asserted such a right."

The Americans and other Western delegations wanted to broaden the debate into a condemnation of terrorism and hijacking. They will give their views a full airing. But the Communists and the Arabs have killed all previous resolutions against terrorism, and undoubtedly they will do so again if another one is introduced.

Herzog told reporters if the council came out clearly against terrorism, it would improve the image of the United Nations.

"But if the U.N. continues with its barren diatribe and paranoid obsessions with Israel, then it will bring the U.N. down a few more rungs toward oblivion," he said.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim was trying to repair the damage done to his position with the Americans and Israelis by his comment Monday that the Israeli raid was a serious violation of Ugandan sovereignty.

He said in a statement that the hijacking "underlines the urgency of the world community finding effective ways of dealing with the increasing pervasive and pernicious practice of international terrorism." The statement also noted that he was a pioneer in the antiterrorism movement, having asked the United Nations to take action against international terrorism after the Palestinian massacre of Israeli athletes at the 1972 Olympics in Munich.

Herzog told reporters he met with Waldheim and accused him of prejudging the issue by his earlier statement. He said Waldheim replied that he had not intended his remarks that way.

New Carlisle teacher wins top lottery prize

CLEVELAND (AP) — New Carlisle elementary school teacher Pruda Barrett says she doesn't think her life will be changed by the $1,000-a-month for life she won in the Ohio lottery.

Mrs. Barrett said Thursday night after winning the top prize in the Buckeye 1,000 game—which guarantees her a minimum of $400,000—that she hadn't thought about what she would do with her winnings.

"I'll have to go home and think about it," she said.

She said she enjoys reading and doing needlepoint and "taking extra college courses."

Mrs. Barrett's husband, Paul, a civilian employee for the Air Force, and a son, Paul Walker, were with her for the televised game in which she outlasted seven other contestants. She said she also has a daughter, Jane.

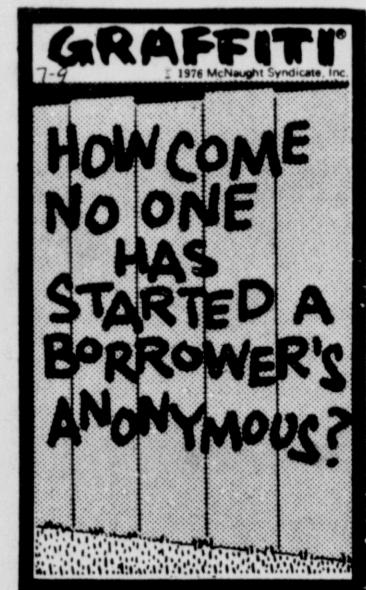

In the lottery's TV Extra game, Tony Scartz of Columbus won $20,000, and another Columbus resident, Helen Haire, won $5,000.

Kay Martin of Bellville won $10,000 in the TV Extra jackpot.

In the Buckeye 1,000 game, the second prize of $10,000 went to James Holbrook of New Richmond. Other winners included Juanita Snyder, Columbus, $7,500; William Tolliver, Cincinnati, $5,000; Mildred Prezioso, Painesville, $4,000; Julius Telek, Rayland, $3,000; Marion Schwan, Fairborn, $2,000, and Edward Shelton, Toledo, $1,000.

Telek was represented at the drawing by his daughter-in-law, Rose Telek.

The regular weekly number drawing produced the following numbers: 505; 1349; 58637; 822783.

Former first lady partially paralyzed

Pat Nixon's condition serious

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Doctors kept an overnight vigil on former first lady Pat Nixon, partially paralyzed on her left side from a stroke and in "serious but stable condition."

Mrs. Nixon was reported resting comfortably after visits with her two daughters Thursday night, but neurologist Dr. John Mosier said she is far from being out of danger.

"If the stroke doesn't get any worse, she's not going to die. If it gets worse, well, people do die from strokes," Mosier said at a news briefing called after the 64-year-old wife of former President Richard M. Nixon was admitted to Memorial Hospital Medical Center.

The stroke caused "moderate paralysis" of Mrs. Nixon's left leg, arm and left side of her face, which in turn caused a "slight slurring" of speech, Mosier said.

"I think she will walk," he said, but added, "She may not walk normally." Pressures in her life "certainly could have been a contributing factor" toward her illness, Mosier added.

Secret Service agents called an ambulance for Mrs. Nixon, and she was accompanied during the 30-mile trip from the former Western White House by her husband and younger daughter, Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

MRS. RICHARD NIXON

Nixon slipped out of the hospital only an hour after her arrival and apparently returned to San Clemente. The couple's other daughter, Tricia

Carter finds veep choice difficult

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — After back-to-back meetings with Sens. Walter Mondale and John Glenn, Jimmy Carter says he is having a more difficult time choosing a vice presidential running mate than he expected.

Mondale, of Minnesota, flew to Carter's hometown in a private plane Thursday morning to meet with him as a vice presidential possibility. And Glenn, from Ohio, followed several hours later.

The former Georgia governor said initially he would interview at least five vice presidential possibilities. He later lengthened that list to six or seven. He talked with Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine on Monday.

Carter said Thursday he plans to meet with Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington in New York on Saturday, two days before the start of the Democratic National Convention. He also has said he probably will interview Rep. Peter Rodino of New Jersey. Although they now are considered dark horses, two other senators who are expected to be interviewed by Carter during the convention are Frank Church of Idaho and Adlai Stevenson of Illinois.

Standing with Glenn, the former astronaut, on the lawn of Carter's home, the man who almost certainly will be nominated for the presidency next week insisted that "I honestly have no preference at this point" for a vice presidential nominee.

"I'm not going to rush myself," Carter said. "I'm deliberately going to wait until quite late."

After the meetings, Carter gave his visitors a taste of small-town Georgia life, first taking Mondale on a quick tour of downtown Plains and later escorting Glenn to his peanut fields, where he pulled a peanut plant and delivered a lengthy lecture on how it grew.

Carter refused to compare for the benefit of reporters his recent senatorial visitors, saying, "They all are superb leaders. All three are highly regarded not only by their colleagues...but by leaders in other parts of this country."

He added that he felt compatible with all three, both personally and on the issues.

Carter was asked whether Mondale, who decided last year not to run for president because he felt the stress of campaigning was too rigorous, could undergo the pressures of running for the vice presidency.

"Yes, we went into that, and there's no doubt in my mind that he would be willing," Carter replied.

Mondale strongly indicated he would accept the vice presidential nomination, answering "yes" to a question about whether he would be willing to give up his career in the Senate.

Glenn, however, refused to say whether he would accept the bid.

"The bid has not been offered, and I think it would be presumptuous of me to say yes or no to that," said Glenn, who was elected to the Senate in 1974.

Fund probe continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five more Central States pension fund trustees are scheduled to be questioned during the next week by government investigators who interrogated Teamsters Union President Frank E. Fitzsimmons for two days about the huge fund.

Fitzsimmons' questioning at the Labor Department ended Thursday with Fitzsimmons, his lawyers and department officials all declining to comment.

The union chief's sworn statements were given in a windowless room under police guard. The other witnesses, including Teamsters vice president William Presser of Cleveland, are all under subpoena.

Government sources have said that investigators are interested in the way fund trustees handled loans. One such loan was for $40 million to expand the Dunes Hotel and Country Club in Las Vegas, Nev. It was recently canceled by the fund at the Labor Department's urging.

Fitzsimmons was accompanied by attorneys Charles Rhyne, a former American Bar Association president, and Seymour Glazer, a former assistant Watergate prosecutor. They refused to identify themselves, but they were recognized by a reporter.

'Fonzie' returns to series work

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was "Happy Days" at Paramount Television with Henry Winkler back in the cast of the ABC series after a two-day absence.

"Everything has been worked out," a company spokesman said Thursday. Winkler, "The Fonz" of the situation comedy, had been absent from the resumption of filming for the new season, reportedly in a move to improve his contract terms.

Stock list up slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rose a bit in early trading today, with investors generally encouraged by lower interest rates.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was ahead a fraction and rising New York Stock Exchange issues held a 3-2 lead on those declining.

At one point, the NYSE ticker tape was three minutes late in recording trades.

The government reported at the start of trading that the wholesale price index rose four-tenths of a per cent in June. The increase was just above the three-tenths of a per cent jump in May, but considerably below the April rise of eight-tenths of a per cent.

Also affecting the mood on Wall Street was the decline in the nation's basic money supply, which was reported late Thursday. With some interest rates falling, there were indications that the Federal Reserve had eased its credit controls slightly.

Opening prices today included U.S. Steel, up 1/4 to 53; General Electric, up 1/4 to 57 3/4; and Bethlehem Steel, off 1/4 at 43 1/2.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average rose .82 to 991.88, with advancing NYSE issues holding a 4-3 margin on those declining.

TV Viewing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What's so funny about a comedy where nobody tells jokes or gets into zany situations? Plenty, if it's "Barney Miller."

The situations in ABC's "Barney Miller" are about as mundane as you can get. The characters are so ordinary you wouldn't look at them twice on the street. You'd swear that Jack Webb could take this show and easily turn it into a low-key police drama.

But "Barney Miller" is funny because it is on the cutting edge of reality. It milks laughs from anguish. "What we have done is take fundamentally dramatic situations and examine them," executive producer Danny Arnold said.

"Reality is the key. The characters and the situations are mundane. But on closer examination you find the satirical twist is the closeness to reality. Making a dramatic situation just slightly larger than life produces the comedy."

"The safety valve that allows us to live through tragedy and pain is the ability to hold it up and examine it. Farce and sketch comedy are so much larger than reality. You can laugh at it because you're so removed from it. But in satire you see something of yourself."

Satire, as the saying goes, is what closes on Thursday. That nearly happened here. It took the show a long time to catch on, but now it is a solid hit.

Arnold, a bearish man with the animated face of a standup comic, created the show with Theodore Flicker from a blend of two separate police comedies. He saw it as the flip side of "Detective Story," approaching police work the way "M-A-S-H." approaches war.

"Barney Miller" is an ensemble of disparate characters reacting individually in a similar situation, as was "Detective Story." The key word for both is survival.

Arnold believes that people today are more interested in looking at themselves than in escape.

"So many things are threatening people today they want to examine themselves," he said. "There were so many things you used to be able to believe in. All those dreams that allowed you to think of other things no longer exist. People are more dependent on themselves. Today you appeal to people on the most fundamental, emotional level."

Water levels up at parks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Water levels at three state parks have reached sufficient heights to support all types of water-oriented recreation, the Department of Natural Resources announced Thursday.

Lack of rain this spring caused lakes at Deer Creek and Buckeye Lake parks to drop below their normal depth. At Deer Creek Lake, southwest of Columbus, the water level had dropped about eight feet below its normal depth, according to a department spokesman.

Recent rains brought the level of the lakes back to normal.

A third state park, Harrison Lake in Fulton County, is reported back to normal following repairs to a gate in the lake's dam. Harrison Lake was drained in September before the repairs.

Davis Memorial in Adams County, 3.5 miles southeast of Peebles on Township Road 129, is a natural history preserve.

Opinion And Comment

Retirement for judges

Chief Justice Donald R. Wright of the California Supreme Court has given strong impetus to the idea of mandatory retirement for judges. He has announced that when he turns 70 he will step down. This has put him in an excellent position to lead a campaign, during his last months on the bench, to place all the state's judges under a mandatory retirement system.

The idea is not new; more than half the states now impose mandatory retirement. But the problem of judges who because of age can no longer perform their duties with energy and competence still plagues many jurisdictions.

No way of dealing with this problem is entirely satisfactory. Some judges remain physically and mentally vigorous well into their 70s or beyond; others slow down markedly in their 60s. The idea of having a commission determine continuing fitness has not worked out well. Mandatory retirement, with generous benefits, seems fairest on the whole. This is especially so since retired judges, at the discretion of the courts, could still be given special assignments from time to time to help out on the bench as needed.

WASHINGTON CALLING...By Marquis Childs

Our 200th birthday

NEW YORK — Well, we survived. That is probably the real meaning of this 200th birthday party. We survived the depression, Korea, Vietnam, Richard Nixon, Watergate, and maybe Wayne Hays should be added to the list, although the outcome there is still uncertain.

Behind all the hoopla of celebration is the satisfaction in survival. It may have been by the skin of our teeth, which was the theme of Thornton Wilder's play on how Homo Sapiens, came through much greater obstacles such as the ice age and the tricky business of keeping out of the way of the dinosaurs.

Let it be added that hoopla is an unfair generalization for the manifold celebrations going forward in every hamlet and crossroads around the country. A great many people have put tremendous energy and effort into these celebrations in response to deep-seated feelings of gratitude for what is right about America. They've been reading a lot about about what is wrong and that is a big beef against the press.

Certain celebrations on the spectacular side have called for extraordinary efforts and widespread cooperation from other nations. Foremost is the parade of the tall ships, the square riggers, reminders of the heroic past, survivors, too, but more than that with their crews learning what sail means. The organizers could put together the flotilla, but they couldn't supply the weather and they were praying for a good wind and enough sun.

What of the next 200 years? Even to raise that question in this presidential year is to suggest the daunting task facing the chief executive after January. Even in the celebrant mood of this greatest of July Fourths, doubt about the future persists.

With roughly one-third of the American people living at or below the poverty line — $5,000 a year for a family — it is idle to talk about the ending of the recession. The affluent two-thirds, or a large proportion, are beginning to feel the happy effects of recovery.

This is showing in a variety of ways. New cars are selling and big cars with the promise of a 10-million-car year, far in excess of the past two years. Spendable income is sharply up, for those fortunate enough to have an income base that survived the recession.

But a newly elected President cannot conceal the fact that we are becoming two nations and that those two separate nations have very little contact one with the other.

In Chicago not long ago in a torrential downpour motorists were forced off the freeway and into side streets. There they were attacked by ghetto dwellers with at least one dead, a number injured and cars heavily damaged. It was as though the dwellers in the affluent nation had unwittingly invaded the province of the other nation and had been set upon for trespassing on the domain of poverty and despair.

In the nation's capital a survey has just shown that in the bleakest of the city's ghettos the never-ending concern is for survival. At least 29 per cent of those living in the ghetto areas — population about 200,000 — are unemployed with only 13 per cent on welfare and three per cent receiving unemployment compensation.

But for this one weekend, this glorious Fourth commemorating the 200th anniversary of the revolutionary words of the Declaration of Independence, we can rejoice; we can believe that the future will show the way to a more equitable distribution of the nation's wealth with the barriers between the two nations broken down.

It is a time to remember those Fourth of Julys of long ago in a town in Iowa on the Mississippi River that still had an echo of the river Mark Twain knew. Up at dawn to set off the first medium-size firecrackers, the big ones later, my father anxiously overseeing the process, suggesting we had better not go near the house three or four doors away where a neighbor was firing off a cannon with a blast that rattled the windows.

Putting out the flag was the next order. Ours was a huge flag of which we were inordinately proud and suspending it from an attic window to the tallest maple was no easy task.

After breakfast Dad read aloud that piece of classic American humor "The Peterkins' Fourth of July," and we all went back to the business of the day which was setting off more noise-makers and waiting for the climax, the night works, to come when darkness fell.

It was an innocent time, or so it seems in retrospect. And if the clouds on the distant horizon foretold the tests ahead, we gave it not a thought.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF INTENT TO PERFORM FLOOD ELEVATION STUDY

The Federal Insurance Administration of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, under authority of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, as amended, (P.L. 90-448) and the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973, (P.L. 93-234), is funding a detailed study of the flood hazard areas in Washington Court House, Ohio.

The study is being performed for the Federal Insurance Administration by Burgess & Niple, Limited, Consulting Engineers and Planners, 5085 Reed Road, Columbus, Ohio 43220.

The purpose of this study is to examine and evaluate the flood hazard areas in the community which are developed or which are likely to be developed and to determine to flood elevations for those areas. Flood elevations will be used by the community to carry out the flood plain management objectives of the National Flood Insurance Program. They will also be used as the basis for determining the appropriate flood insurance premium rates applicable for new buildings and their contents, as well as determining the rates to be used for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and contents.

This announcement is intended to notify all interested persons of the commencement of this study so that they may have an opportunity to bring any relevant facts and technical data concerning local flood hazards to the attention of Mr. George Shapler, Office of the City Manager, 208 N. Fayette Street, Washington Court House, Ohio 43146, forwarding to the appropriate representatives of the Federal Insurance Administration. July 2-9-16

Ohio Perspective

Ethics commission studies expansion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Ethics Commission will consider at its monthly meeting in July a proposal to bring more "heavy" state agencies under financial disclosure requirements.

Jerome Bahlmann, the commission's executive secretary, said the agency might want to require members of the public utilities commission, board of tax appeals and "some of the other heavy agencies" to comply with the law.

Under the existing statute, which requires all elected officials to disclose sources of income but not the amounts, the legislature also included executive heads of agencies who are in policy or decision making positions.

The envisioned expansion would say that all members of state boards and commissions, named by the governor and subject to confirmation by the Senate, also would have to submit the annual financial reports.

Bahlmann wanted the expansion included in a 1976 revision of the ethics law, and it was a provision of that legislation law until it was deleted by a Senate-House conference committee. However the executive secretary said it was the intent of the legislature that the commission should expand the coverage by means of a rules change, rather than giving it the force of law, if it saw fit.

E.W. Lampson of Jefferson, a former state representative and commission member, said he favors that more flexible approach because rules can be revised and changed as needed, while a statute cannot be repealed except by the enactment of another statute.

Bahlmann and others contend members of the utilities commission and tax appeals board, among others, seem to fit into the same rationale that caused the state to require elected officials to provide information that could point up possible conflicts of interest.

The utilities commission decides rate applications for utilities while the tax board, with its quasijudicial authority, makes sweeping decisions that affect corporate and individual tax bills.

The five member ethics panel, if it wants to adopt the new rule, would proceed under the administrative procedures statute which requires public hearings advertised in advance for affected parties to express support or opposition.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Does God give change for a $5 bill?

DEAR ABBY: While in church, I saw a woman put a $5 bill in the collection plate and take back $4. Is that considered proper etiquette?

CURIOUS
DEAR CURIOUS: Why not. God knows she put in five.

DEAR ABBY: This is an old story, but I need any help I can get. I fell in love with a married man. I'm married, too. There was no good reason for this, as I have a very nice husband, but nonetheless, it is a fact.

I can't respond to my husband sexually, and it is hurting him. Things seem to be completely out of control.

I have tried keeping busy and active, but to no avail. I still wake up at 3 in the morning and toss and turn for hours. Taking an interest in other people is a real challenge. My children are the ones who are suffering most.

It's not necessary to tell me not to see the other man because there is no contact between us now, but I think of him constantly. Also, please don't tell me there must have been something missing in my marriage for this to have happened. I already know that, and it doesn't help.

What I want from your readers is any suggestion that has worked for them.

LOVESICK
DEAR LOVESICK: Lovesickness is a "mental disease." It doesn't respond to logic, and what has worked for one may not work for another. You can't kill love: it has to die by itself.

Talking to a therapist is your best bet. Try it. Also forcing thoughts of "him" out of your mind by replacing them with other thoughts help. And so does time!

DEAR ABBY: I often eat out with friends who seem to gobble down their food. Unfortunately, I wear dentures and must eat more slowly.

Is it considered bad manners to continue eating after the guests and hostess have finished their meals?

PLAIN DUMB
DEAR PLAIN: Please don't label yourself "dumb" because yours is very intelligent question. Take all the time you need to enjoy your meal, and don't worry about those who have gobbled down their food hastily. They are lacking in good manners not you.

Today In History

Today is Friday, July 9th, the 191st day of 1976. There are 175 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in History:
On this date in 1776, Gen. George Washington summoned his troops in New York and had the Declaration of Independence read to them.

On this date:
In 1816, Argentina declared independence from Spain.

In 1850, President Zachary Taylor died at the White House after serving only one year and four months of his term.

In 1940, during World War II, the Duke of Windsor was appointed governor of the Bahamas

In 1947, the engagement of Britain's Princess Elizabeth and Lt. Philip Mountbatten was announced.

In 1960, the Soviets threatened the United States with missiles if any attempt were made to oust the Castro government in Cuba

In 1961, a U. S. space capsule, launched from a rocket, was recovered in the air by an Air Force plane over the Pacific.

Ten years ago: The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, meeting in Los Angeles, rejected the "black power" concept of racial separatism.

Five years ago: The last U. S. base guarding the demilitarized zone in Vietnam was turned over to South Vietnamese troops.

One year ago: President Ford accepted a Congressional proposal for a partial lifting of the embargo on arms delivery to Turkey.

Today's birthday: King Hassan of Morocco is 47 years old.

Thought for today: The ultimate solution of the race problem lies in the willingness of men to obey the unenforceable — the late Rev. Martin Luther King.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago, Nassau Hall in Princeton, N.J., was brightly illuminated. There was a triple volley of musketry — in a celebration of the recently proclaimed Independence.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Fallibility marked old realism

NEW YORK (AP) — A tough realism, born of an ancient Biblical idea, underlay the founding of these United States — a conviction that human beings, including the most elevated statesmen of government, can go wrong.

They were regarded, in Scriptural terms, as subject to sin. It's an old, old notion, and the term is not at all fashionable these days, however extensive the problem itself, but awareness of it tempered the building blocks of the nation.

On its 200th birthday this weekend, the national structure still holds, and much of the credit for it is given to the original scathing view of the human condition.

Historians say it's what distinguished the American system and made it last through all sorts of aberrations and upheavals, while other struggles for liberation often relapsed into tyranny. In such cases, the masses took a rosy, trusting view of their leaders, whose authority subsequently turned repressive. But the American founders viewed those put in positions of power with a dour, critical eye.

That note of skepticism about the human tendency was written into the U.S. Constitution, with its checks and balances giving each branch of government — the president, the Congress, the courts — restraining reins on the others.

Each was limited in relation to the other, their functions so allotted that each was considered able to curb the others from excesses.

The American Revolution came shortly before another one in Europe, the French Revolution of 1789. While the objectives were similar, the throwing off of kingly rule, the outcomes differed radically.

The United States survived and flourished while the new French republic degenerated into the mass executions of the "Terror" and the military despotism of Napoleon Bonaparte that swept Europe.

Scholars cite various reasons for the difference, including the fact that the French Revolution was anticlerical, while in America, the clergy and religious influences figured both in the Revolution and the ensuing U.S. Constitution.

However, the basic difference cited involved the French "optimism" about human direction, versus American "pessimism."

Singing event featured

The Good News Singers of the Maple Grove Church will present a musical program entitled "Come Alive" from 8 to 10 p.m., July 16 through 18, at the rodeo grounds on Ohio 753, just outside of Good Hope.

Having been together for two years, the group has sung in various places throughout Ohio, including three different concert presentations.

In addition to the upcoming musical event, the singers plan to cut a record of their favorite singing selections on Aug. 7. A trip to Pomeroy and an engagement there on Aug. 22 is also eagerly awaited by the group.

The advisor of the group is Jackie Craven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Craven, White Road, and she is employed as an accountant in Columbus.

Youths leave for Honduras

Nearly 200 people were present at the Gregg Street Church Wednesday to bid farewell to 12 young people and five adult chaperones leaving by bus for the Honduras, Central America, for three weeks.

The trip is part of the Gregg Street Church Youth Department Missionary Orientation Project.

The plan and purpose of the missionary project is to provide direct missionary contact for selected candidates of various churches.

The youths have been working for three months to raise $5,100 to sponsor the trip.

After arriving in Florida by church bus, the group will fly to Tegucigalpa D.C., Honduras. They will then travel to El Sembrador, Honduras where they will work on various projects at a home and school for underprivileged boys. The school is operated by Don and Twana Hawk and family from Washington C.H.

The missionary program is conducted annually, and many youths are sent each year to various parts of the world.

Now - every loaf, every bun, every bite... baked with unbleached flour!

Ladies of GAR theme 'Heritage'

Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Circle 25, met in the Fellowship Hall, Staunton United Methodist Church, when a "Heritage" program was the theme. Ladies were attired in long, old-fashioned dresses, and each brought an item she had inherited from a grandparent or relative.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Mary Bell and Mrs. Kenneth Bryan, who served a dessert course to the 12 members and one guest preceding the meeting. Members Mrs. Harry Bell, Mrs. Kenneth Bryan, Mrs. Gene Carman, Mrs. Ralph Child, Miss Florence Hidy, Miss Florence Purcell, Mrs. Wilbur Morgan, Mrs. Walter Parrett, Mrs. Donald Pemberton, Dr. Bernice O'Brian, Mrs. Nona Stevens and Mrs. Millard Weidinger and guest Miss Sally Bryan, were seated at tables centered with a miniature old-fashioned couple. Favors were flowers in small corks.

Mrs. Stevens called the meeting to order in ritualistic form followed by devotions given by Mrs. Donald Pemberton in the absence of Mrs. Lawrence Black. Mrs. Bell, patriotic instructor, led the Pledge of Allegiance.

Garden Club holds meeting

New officers of the Busy Bee Garden Club to be installed at the July meeting are: President - Mrs. Rowena Cummins; vice president - Mrs. Helen Ferguson; secretary - Miss Helen Fultz; treasurer - Mrs. Janice Creamer; and press correspondent - Mrs. Ruth Sheeley. The luncheon - meeting will be held at Anderson's Restaurant.

Mrs. Virginia Shoemaker recently entertained the above officers and other members of the club at her home. Mrs. Cummins, president, opened with the poem, "June." Mrs. Ferguson also read a poem entitled "June" by Edgar Guest and "Strawberries." Members named a beneficial insect for roll call, and Mrs. Shoemaker read "Buzzing for Fun and Profit." She told of how the bee is needed for raising all fruits and vegetables.

Miss Fultz reported on "Apple Seed Met New Frontiers," which told of John Chapman (Johnny Appleseed), born in 1774 in Massachusetts, and of the John Apple Seed Park in Fort Wayne, Ind. Mrs. Ferguson closed with the "Butterfly's Ball," and a dessert course was served by the hostess during the social hours.

Contest winners of flower boxes, mailboxes named

Winners of the Bicentennial "Flower Growing" contest sponsored by the garden clubs of Fayette County for flower boxes and mailboxes have been announced by judges Mrs. Edwin Thompson, chairman, and Mrs. Dwight Duff.

Winners of the flower box contest are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Roush, 832 Columbus Ave.; Mr. and Mrs. William Pool, 317 Cherry St.; Rev. Gerald Wheat, 220 N. Hinde St.; and Mrs. Robert Wilson, 427 Gibbs Ave.

Mailbox decorating winners in the county are the Misses Jeanette and Josephine Roush, 5865 U.S. Rt. 62SW; Mrs. Julie Ward, 3750 Mills Rd. SE; Mrs. Charles Bowdle, 92 Country Manor Dr.; Mrs. Alvin Writzel, 8107 Glaze Rd.; and Mrs. Dale Merritt, 4158 Washington-Waterloo Rd. NE.

Each winner will receive $5.00. Mrs. Thompson wishes to thank everyone who participated in the contest and to The Record-Herald for news coverage.

Mrs. Walter Parrett read communications of a letter from Past National GAR President Mrs. Margaret Orr, and Mrs. Ralph Child gave the treasurer's report, and of visits made to Quiet Acres Nursing Home with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Finley, and at Court House Manor with Miss Etha Sturgeon and Mrs. Minnie Smith. Mrs. Stevens reported on the State Convention held in Alliance which she attended, and announced the local GAR had received patriotic and membership awards.

New members receiving the obligation at a special called meeting were Mrs. Heber Deer, Miss Mary Francis Snider and Miss Helen Perrill, Mrs. Florence Kempton, Mrs. Dean Powell, Mrs. Willard Bitzer, Mrs. John Sagar Sr. and Mrs. Russell Giebelhouse.

Plans were made for a bake sale and silent auction, to be held at the Staunton Fellowship Hall at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 3. Mrs. Frances Toops and Miss Florence Hidy will be hostesses.

There will be no meeting in August. Pictures were taken at the closing.

Former resident is married

Mrs. Patricia Scott of Washington C. H., has announced the marriage of her father, Donald J. Gibson, a former resident of Fayette County, to Mrs. Eleanor Greene, both of St. Petersburg, Fla.

They were united in marriage on Sunday, June 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Church By The Sea, Madeira Beach, Fla., by Dr. Pickens. Mrs. Gibson's children, Mrs. Jennifer Zajdel and Mr. William Greene, attended the couple.

A small dinner-party was held following the ceremony at The Penguin on Sunset Beach. Mr. Gibson is retired and Mrs. Gibson is employed at the St. Petersburg Times in Clearwater, Fla. They are at home to their friends at 4641 Harborlights Drive, Harborlights Club, St. Petersburg, Fla. 33708.

W Workers and Methodist Women meet

A joint meeting of the Willing Workers Class and the Staunton United Methodist Women was held in the Fellowship Hall at the church, with Mrs. Elza Smith from the class giving the prayer from the calendar book. Devotions from the Book of Revelations were given by Mrs. Walter Parrett.

Various reports were made by Mrs. J. O. Wilson and Mrs. Alice Bush, in the absence of Mrs. Addie Barger. Cards were sent to Mrs. Robert Kitchen, and the Misses Mazie Rowe and Ethel Hidy.

For the women's meeting, Mrs. Parrett called the meeting to order and Mrs. Donald Pemberton, secretary, read minutes. Each answered roll call by 'what the flag means to me.' Mrs. J.O. Wilson, treasurer, announced plans for the group to have a table at the Farmer's Market July 23 downtown, and also for the class picnic for Aug. 22. There will be no meeting of the groups in August.

A Memorial Service was prepared and read by Mrs. Parrett for Miss Blanche Roberts.

Those present were Mrs. Elza Smith, Mrs. Pemberton, Mrs. C.F. Winkle, Mrs. Pauline Fischer, Mrs. Harry Hayslip, Mrs. Parrett, Mrs. Wilbur Hidy, Mrs. Alice Bush, Mrs. J.O. Wilson, Mrs. Lela Allen, Mrs. Homer Wilson, Mrs. Jed Stuckey, Mrs. Maude Shubert and Mrs. Florence Bethards.

'Zoo Day' set for Girl Scouts

Girl Scouts will celebrate their third annual Zoo Day on July 22 at the Columbus Zoo. Hours at the Zoo are from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. The day will get rolling with a flag ceremony at 10:15 a.m.

Highlights of the day will be the re-adoption ceremony for "Sealia" the sea lion. The Girl Scouts named the sea lion and contribute toward her support. Terry Ward, popular disc jockey from WOOL, will be master of ceremonies. Following the adoption ceremony there will be free refreshments and the awarding of door prizes.

There will be entertainment throughout the day. There will be a puppet show, an EPY (Emergency Preparedness for Youth) demonstration, a parade, a sing-along, and performances by Sealia. The Rockwell and Girl Scout Clown Units will be on hand to entertain all day long. Art tables will also be set up around the Zoo grounds for the girls to draw and display pictures of their favorite animals.

tivities are developed through assemblies and workshops held with delegates from other states, including Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma and West Virginia.

The 4-H'ers will participate in workshops selected from citizenship action sessions including national issues; citizenship at home, in the community, the state the nation and the world; and the beginnings — American heritage, and reflections and challenges.

In addition, the five Fayette County delegates had the opportunity to visit the offices of Ohio's senators and congressman. A special tour of the Capitol building includes viewing Congress in action.

One special highlight is a visit to Mount Vernon, home of George Washington, via a boat trip up the Potomac River. The delegates also tour the FBI, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Supreme Court, the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, the White House and other government facilities and memorials.

Fees for the Fayette County delegates were paid by the Junior Leadership Club.

Two other Fayette Countians, Scott Gerber and Jeff Harper, will be attending Citizenship Short Course the week of August 1, according to Jack Sommers, Fayette County 4-H extension agent.

Red dye downfall for bandits

WAYNESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Police continued to search today for four red-faced bank robbers who pitched away two shopping bags loaded with loot when red dye bombs exploded in them.

Warren County Sheriff Roy Wallace declined to reveal the amount of the money but believed it had all been recovered from two locations, one in Waynesville and the other on U.S. 42 at Harveysburg Hill Road.

Wallace said the car, reported stolen in Dayton, Ohio, was found in a cemetery at Corwin, Ohio, but the bandits had apparently fled in another vehicle.

He said three masked gunmen robbed the Waynesville National Bank

Thursday morning and left with two shopping bags loaded with money taken from tellers cages while bank employees and 15 customers were ordered to the floor. Bank employees apparently inserted fake money packages containing the explosives, dye and tear gas into the bags.

Wallace said one witness saw the first bag explode a few blocks from the bank. The second bag was seen exploding in the car by a second witness. Wallace said the gunmen threw the bags from the windows of the car and continued their flight.

"We've recovered a lot of good evidence," Wallace said. "We should be able to find out who they were."

The FBI took over the case.

Rail authority to double size

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Rail Transportation Authority plans to double its size this fiscal year.

The new director, Carl Freshour, said this week that he wants to add five additional employees to the present staff at salaries ranging from $7,500 for a receptionist to $15,500 for a deputy director.

The authority was established to oversee the expansion of rail service throughout Ohio.

It now has a three-member staff. The first director, Graeme J. MacKeown, quit earlier in the year amidst a controversy about his qualifications and the future of the agency.

Patrol post commander promoted, transferred

COLUMBUS — Lt. Robert E. Kline, commander of the Ohio Highway Patrol post at Wilmington covering Fayette and Clinton counties, has been promoted to the rank of staff lieutenant and transferred to the Piqua district headquarters where he will be assistant commander.

Staff Lt. Kline, who was named to the Wilmington post commander's position in 1966, has been a member of the Ohio Highway Patrol for the past 24 years, joining in November 1951.

Citizens band radio thefts investigated

Two reported citizens band radio thefts were checked by Fayette County sheriff's deputies on Thursday, while Washington C.H. police officers investigated an alleged petty theft, a prowling incident, and a dog bite report.

Sheriff's deputies reported that the two citizens band thefts took place around 4 a.m. Thursday at the Day's Inn Motel parking lot, U.S. 35 and I-71.

A $180 citizens band radio belonging to Rodney L. Allen, Raleigh, W. Va., was reportedly stolen from his car as it was parked on the parking lot.

A citizens band radio valued at $170 belonging to Harlow N. Plew, Sladerville Springs, N.Y., was reportedly stolen from his car as it also was parked on the motel parking lot.

In both reported thefts, entry was made through the right front door by forcing open the right window, sheriff's deputies said.

Steven J. Woodfork, 18, of Chillicothe, was arrested by Washington C.H. police officers Thursday for petty theft. He reportedly attempted to steal three pairs of "Electric Socks" valued at $9 from Rock-N-Stuff, W. Court Street, at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Jackie Garrison, 32, of 604 S. Elm St., was arrested for prowling, after police stationed at Portsmouth, Chillicothe Bay Bridge, Steubenville and Wilmington. He was transferred to the Wilmington post from the Bay Bridge post at Sandusky. He succeeded E.W. Wilson at Wilmington.

Originally from Frankfort in Ross County, he graduated from Buckskin Valley High School in South Salem and attended Kent State University.

Staff Lt. Kline and his wife, Virginia, reside in Wilmington. They have four children, Richard, 26, Victor, 24, Robin, 20, and Scott, 18.

officers said he was found hiding in bushes near 324 E. Court Street, with a loaded .38 caliber pistol nearby.

While walking along the 300 block of E. Paint Street, Ben Collins, 331 N. Fayette St., told police officers he was bitten by a dog at 8:50 p.m. Thursday.

Convention ads sets as Demo fund bid

NEW YORK (AP) — The television commercial interruptions of the Democratic National Convention next week will include advertisements of the Democrats, by the Democrats, for the Democrats.

The message: Send money.

The Democratic National Committee has bought eight television spots, two each on two networks, Monday and Wednesday night.

"We'll have primarily a Democratic audience," S. Lee Kling, the party finance chairman, said in an interview Thursday. "What better time to say to them, 'We'd like you to support us with small contributions.'"

The Democrats have raised money previously by staging telethons, but this will be the first time they've joined soap and deodorants to appeal for the dollar.

The commercials will cost in the neighborhood of $120,000, Kling said, and will star party chairman Robert S. Strauss and others not yet selected.

Officials wanted to have the contributions sent to Box 1976, in keeping with the year, but alas, someone else already has the magic number.

The federal government, through the dollar income-tax checkoff, is picking up the $2,182,000 convention cost. With no convention costs to worry about, the Democrats are concentrating on raising $10 million for the campaign ahead.

The law allows individual contributions of no more than $1,000 to the candidate, but individual donations of up to $20,000 can be made to the party.

"The fat cat this year will really be the person who gives us $20,000," Kling says.

Childbirth death rate increases

BRISTOL, Ind. (AP) — A sixth death in childbirth has been reported in a northern Indiana religious sect that scorns professional medical care.

Dr. F. W. Bigler, Elkhart County coroner, said Thursday the mother lost her baby during childbirth in June. A county police report from June 12 quoted Mary Greider as saying, "There was no life in the baby" born to Jan Miller when he emerged after a breach birth.

Dr. Bigler said, "From the report, I think there's a good possibility the baby could have been saved if the baby was under medical care. If they knew resuscitation, the baby could have been saved."

Mrs. Greider's husband is founder of the Glory Barn Faith Assembly. It has about 1,000 members who worship in a three-story barn near North Webster.

Wilkins sees state deficit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered today a two per cent reduction in state spending in an effort to save $53 million during the fiscal year and balance the budget.

Rhodes gave the order after William W. Wilkins, director of the Office of Budget and Management, informed him Thursday that the state would have more than a $50 million deficit at the end of the fiscal year on June 30, 1977.

The reduction in spending will effect executive departments, administrative departments, and all other departments, offices, agencies, institutions, boards and commissions except the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction and appropriations for debt service and pension benefits.

In his executive order, the governor urged the General Assembly to order at least a two per cent cut in its appropriations for this fiscal year.

On Thursday, Wilkins predicted that the state would have a $58.3 million deficit at the end of the fiscal year

Rape suspect bound to grand jury

A Fayette County man was bound over to the Fayette County grand jury Thursday, following a preliminary hearing in Washington C. H. Municipal Court on a charge of rape.

James A. Thomas, 30, of 5848 Inkseep Road, was arrested Tuesday by Fayette County sheriff's deputies, and charged with the July 1 rape of a 12-year-old Fayette County boy.

It was incorrectly reported in Thursday's edition of the Record-

Herald that the rape victim was a girl. During the 20-minute preliminary hearing on Thursday, acting Washington C. H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case ruled that Thomas' alleged felonious offense be reviewed by a session of the Fayette County grand jury to see if enough evidence is present for Thomas to be tried for rape.

A session of the Fayette County grand jury will meet today in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Thomas was arrested on a private warrant filed by the mother of the boy. The alleged offense is believed to have occurred in the youth's residence, where Thomas is said to have "sexually assaulted" the boy.

During Thomas' initial appearance in Washington C. H. Municipal Court on Wednesday, bond was set at $10,000 for the defendant by Judge Case. Thomas was released after posting bond on the charge.

Thomas is being represented by Washington C. H. attorney John C. Bryan. John H. Roszmann, assistant Fayette County prosecuting attorney, presented evidence for the state during the preliminary hearing.

IN OTHER Washington C. H. Municipal Court non-traffic activity Thursday, Larry E. Forsha, 25, of 376 Ely St., had bond set by acting Judge

Case at $2,500 during an initial appearance for a charge of check forgery.

Forsha was arrested Thursday by Washington C. H. police officers after he allegedly signed the name "Michael Williams" to a $75 Williams Construction Co. check made payable to "Ronny Forsha."

A preliminary hearing for Forsha has been scheduled for next Tuesday in Washington C. H. Municipal Court. Currently, the suspect is incarcerated in the city jail, in lieu of bond.

Local firefighters answer 26 calls

Over a three-day period during the month of June, the Washington C. H. fire Department was called three times to render aid in incidents considered hazardous because of gas leakage caused by automobile accidents.

A total of 18 Washington C.H. calls were made last month plus eight Union Township runs. Three vehicle fires occurred in the city, while only one fire of this type occurred in Union Township. There were five building fires in Washington C.H. and the same number of trash or grass fires to which the fire department was summoned. Only one building fire was reported in Union Township and two grass or trash fires.

Personnel data, concerning the fire department, disclosed that there were a total of 68 regular firefighters on duty in the city and 33 on duty on duty in Union Township during June. Seventy-one volunteers responded to emergency runs in Washington C. H. and volunteers acted in Union Township. The total average volunteer response per fire in Washington C.H. was 4.37 and 2.43 in Union Township.

Fire trucks logged a total of 31.2 miles within Washington C.H. and 63.9 miles outside of the city limits. Total fire loss is listed at $11,850. for the city and $650 for Union Township. There were no fire-related deaths or injuries during June, according to the report prepared by John P. Rockhold, Washington C.H. assistant fire chief.

Missing records hinder tag probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Missing records from the Bureau of Motor Vehicles may hinder collection of a $69,027 shortage charged to a former deputy auto registrar.

In a copyrighted story Thursday, the Elyria Chronicle-Telegram said the shortage was charged by the bureau to Fred Gosney of Columbiana village for auto tags sold by him in 1974.

Gosney is the son of Don Gosney, an aide to Rep. Wayne L. Hays and county Democratic party chairman.

An examiner checking the Gosney account for state Auditor Thomas

Ferguson confirms a shortage of about $50,000. But, the examiner said "the Gosney audit is now at a standstill because we cannot find records for about $20,000 worth of tags."

Ferguson, while neither confirming nor denying the exact amount, said there is a shortage, but, "the exact amount can't be determined until the audit is completed, and it's difficult to complete the audit until we have the missing records."

nothing about the records...they just came in and took them." Gosney also said he does not intend to repay any money "because there's no shortage."

The state auditor said he'll try to reconstruct what happened to the missing records adding, "The next move is to try to bring the audit to a successful conclusion—with or without the records."

Ferguson said it is not uncommon to have records misfiled. Gosney was employed at the New Philadelphia office of the state Department of Transportation at the time he was selling auto tags as a deputy auto registrar. The auditors office said holding the two positions was legal since a deputy auto registrar is essentially a private contractor and not a state employee.

Deputies check hitskip mishap

A hitskip accident which, Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported, occurred sometime Thursday, caused moderate damage to a telephone pole.

Traveling north on Ohio 41-S, the hitskip vehicle attempted to make a right turn onto Rowe Ging Road, sheriff's deputies reported. The vehicle missed the turn, struck a telephone pole, and then damaged a concrete fence post belonging to Richard Wolfe, Ohio 41-S.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies are investigating the accident.

Village solons hold meeting

MILLEDGEVILLE — All Milledgeville council members were present Wednesday as a resolution was passed to establish a board of directors for the village's community center and town hall.

The monthly, meeting, held at 7:30 p.m. in the town meeting place on Main Street, also concerned the adoption of a budget for 1977, and permission by council for Mayor Ron Anderson to purchase street signs for the village.

A hearing on the adopted 1977 village budget has been scheduled for Friday night.

In other council activity Wednesday, a village resident lodged a complaint about a truck being parked too close to an alley.

Mending snarled relationships between parent, child

By CINDI PEARCE

Record-Herald Staff Writer

Parents, is your child making life miserable for both himself and you through his persistent defiance and deviance? Children, do your parents seem distant, as if they're holding a protective shield around themselves, and don't care to be approached with your problems? If this is the case, maybe a liaison of sorts is needed to mend this snarled relationship between parent and child, which may well be creating difficulties for the child elsewhere, such as in peer relationships or academic performance.

David Johnson, who describes himself as "that strange man who walks into a classroom and takes a child away for two or three hours," just might be the person to help. Johnson, who is the child psychologist in the Washington C.H. School District, is employed to help children who have been referred to him by the child's parent or teacher. Actually, Johnson's practice isn't confined to elementary age children. This past school year, he ran the gamut, working with a three-year-old, who was referred by his parents, and with 18 and 19-year-olds, who personally sought out his help on their own initiative.

The 26-year-old graduate of the University of Cincinnati, has only one year's experience under his belt, but obviously knows his business just the same as if he'd been practicing for eons. "Last year, after finishing my year's internship in Hamilton County, I heard about this job opening. I came here and applied and luckily, got the job. I was glad to come to Washington C.H. I was tired of the big city and wanted to situate in a small town for awhile."

After undergraduate school, Johnson had intended to go on to law school, but his financial aid wasn't sufficient. Consequently, he went to graduate school and became intrigued with the field of psychology and decided that this was the profession he wanted to pursue.

How does one go about being a child psychologist? The bachelor explained the process he must go through before speaking to a child, who for some reason or other, has been referred to him.

"A teacher, the superintendent or the child's parents can refer a child to me. The child may be having some sort of a behavioral problem which could have either an emotional or learning base. Before I can legally see this child, I must first get a written consent from the child's parents. If the parents comply, then I go to the child's classroom, speak with the teacher and then ask the child to come with me."

Johnson feels that it is unfortunate that the child has no part in the decision making process, but he doesn't know what can be done to remedy this. "I guess this is what we do to children in society. They have no voice in what's going on even when it concerns them. It is a little wonder that a child is apprehensive when I approach him and ask him to come with me." Sometimes Johnson will sit in the classroom for a while before approaching a child. "It lets them get used to me." He also makes appearances on the playground and became involved in coaching.

Due to this unavoidable apprehension on the child's part, it is often hard to "break the ice." Johnson employs several techniques when trying to establish rapport with a child. "I usually ask them if they're married, which, most times, elicits a response, but sometimes they'll just look at me as if I'm crazy. One time I was talking to a six-year-old and I guess I was acting pretty dumb. I was smiling a lot and saying simple things, in hopes that he would open up. He did. He looked at and said, 'you certainly are a silly man.'" Johnson laughed. "Younger children haven't yet been conditioned to social subtleties and they can be pretty blunt with you." Another of Johnson's methods for establishing rapport, is to ask a child if he drove to school that morning.

The bulk of Johnson's referrals are in the seven to 12 age group. He commented that children under the age of seven are rarely referred. "A teacher is hesitant to refer such a young child unless the child is obviously having extreme difficulties."

The majority of the children that Johnson sees are male. "In general, boys seem to have a harder time in school. Their eye-hand coordination seems to develop slower than that of a girl's. Boys seem to manifest behavioral problems that stem from learning problems. Girls, on the other hand, manifest the most academic success at least initially, but between the ages of 15 and 22, girls usually begin to take a more passive role academically and the boys begin to excel although I'm not convinced that boys ever really do catch up with girls."

Adolescent problems are abundant. "Over the age of 12, I deal with the typical adolescent problems. A lot of the troubles that these kids are having stem from their home lives. Maybe it appears that their parents don't understand them and don't care to. Anymore, adolescents are questioning their parents more than they used to."

Johnson continued by saying, "In high school and junior high, the main problem seems to be peer acceptance. It is so important. You find this problem once again in the 35 to 50 age group. There is a lot of conformity during these periods. Again, after the age of 65, you find this is concern with conformity because most people retire at this age. During the 22 to 40 age period, most people are less concerned about conformity. They are finding their careers and are still young, but not children any longer. They are branching out." Johnson says that our culture is peculiar in its belief in adolescence. "Adolescence is a period of physiological change as well as social upheaval, yet, I feel that we have artificially created this adolescence problem within our society. We are the only western society, since the Industrial Revolution, to have such a thing as adolescence. The Jewish people have the bar mitzvah for a boy of the age 13, and this signifies a sort of transition from childhood to adulthood. In eastern societies, a specific ritual is performed which too signifies the passage from childhood to adulthood. Two hundred years ago the average life span was anywhere from 35 to 40 years. By the time a person was 18 he was married and had two or three children. Were they still children?"

Once Johnson has a child in his presence, regardless of his age, he feels that they have begun to communicate when the child starts to make spontaneous remarks on his own initiative. Johnson gives the children, that he sees, various tests which include personality and intelligence tests and modality tests which check the child's motor coordination and perception and the ink blot test. He may have the child draw a picture of a human, or of himself, which he said is always enlightening as to what is troubling the child.

"After looking at a picture that a child has drawn, which is supposed to be a picture of himself, you don't have to be a psychologist to determine if that child is disturbed. Some kids draw tiny, stick figures while others draw large, imposing pictures. This reveals a lot about how he views himself."

If, through his testing, Johnson finds that a child is suffering from a perceptual problem, he then refers the child to Mrs. Jody Smalley, a speech therapist. If he discovers that the child has a learning disability, he will have the learning disabilities consultant work with the child. Johnson usually sees the child twice and then does a follow up. If he decides to counsel a child after testing him, he will see the child on an extended basis. Johnson likes to have parental conferences, but often, parents are hesitant about coming to see him. "The word psychologist has a bad connotation," he commented.

Asked if a left-handed child should be forced to switch to the right, Johnson answered adamantly, "Never! We live in a right-handed world, and people seem to assume that anyone who is left-handed is brain damaged, which is not true. Left-handed children are stigmatized. They hate to go up to the black board and write because they are a southpaw. It seems that the only time it is good to be a southpaw is when one is an athlete." Johnson added, that if a child shows signs of ambidexterity, this shouldn't be encouraged. "He should go one way or the other."

Elaborating on the concept of brain damage, Johnson said, "We are all brain damaged to some extent. It can happen pre-natally, through the mother's diet or an accident, or it can happen during the birthing process or post-natally. If a child, chokes and loses consciousness, however briefly, then he has burnt up brain cells." "Of course," Johnson added, every time a person drinks one too many beers, he is burning up brain cells." He said that, a doctor, and not himself, was the only person who could determine brain damage.

Not putting a whole lot of emphasis on the IQ of a child, Johnson gave the example of a child who has a superior IQ, but can't read for anything. "Say this child is the son or daughter of a doctor and a teacher. He has been enriched culturally through travel etc., but, never-the-less, he can't read. This sort of situation is hard for a parent to understand. In this case, the child will be given a modality test or EEG (brain scan). A child may have a perceptual problem which causes him to see the number 13 as a B or when he writes, he may make his b's into d's. Many times a child will see a word such as WAS as SAW. A child may be having trouble with laterality or the determination of right and left," which Johnson says that he too suffers from. "When I go to make a right turn, I really have to think about it." Perserveration is another problem. In this case, a child might see the letter N as a continuous NNNNNN.

Another interesting factor that Johnson has come across in his work, is the fact that sex roles are changing. "Younger teachers, in particular, are no longer putting the students into what I call sex ghettos. In the past teachers, parents and our society in general, taught little girls to be passive and boys to be aggressive. If a man was climbing the corporate ladder, he was thought of as ambitious, but in the same instance, a woman was thought of as emasculating." He stated that he'll often have the children draw pictures of their home life. "About 50 per cent of the time, they'll draw their parents in the 'traditional' feminine, masculine roles, with mother at the stove cooking and dad going off to work. But more and more I find that children will draw their family situation as one where both parents work." He cited the recent Title 9 program that makes female participation in an athletic program mandatory if there is only going to be one, rather than two separate athletic programs, designed for males and females. "I had four girls competing on my junior high track team this year and they competed on an equal level. We were the only track team that had a co-ed group. During adolescence, girls are often physically superior to boys."

Johnson finds his job fulfilling particularly when he makes obvious headway with the child that he is helping. "It makes me feel good when a child, who has been struggling with reading for several years, is finally able to read, or when a child, who is in continual conflict with his parents, is finally able to resolve the situation. When a child is battling continuously with his parents and we discuss this, I lay it on the line. I tell them that they aren't able to change their parents, but they are able to change themselves. We must be very realistic. I ask the child, what is worse, getting smacked by your mother, which is quite traumatic for 13-year-old, or to avoid the situation entirely by going to one's room and refusing to argue? You know, there is a certain amount of dignity in suffering," Johnson laughed. "I just hope that by working with a child, I can help cut down on the frequency of his fights with his parents."

Johnson plans to come back to Washington C.H. next year and continue his work with children. He enjoys his work, and the kids, once they get to know that enigmatic force that walks into a room unannounced and sweeps them away, seem to enjoy him too!

Perez, Griffey join fellow Reds on NL all-star squad

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cincinnati's Big Red Machine and Philadelphia's powerpacked Phillies placed a combined 12 players on the National League All-Star team. Surprise — they're all hitters.

The Phillies, way out in front in the NL East, will have five players competing in front of their home fans at Veterans Stadium Tuesday night for the 47th All-Star Game. The Reds, leaders in the NL West, added two reserves to the five Cincinnati starters the fans had chosen earlier.

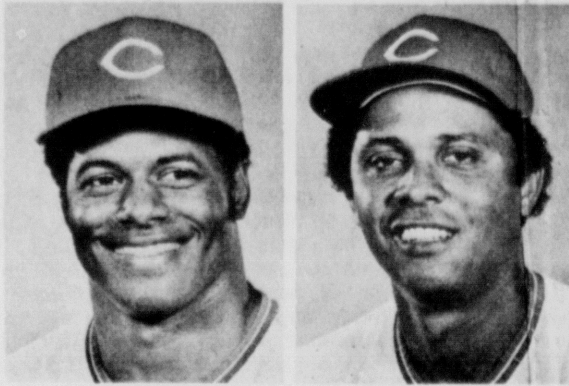

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson Thursday picked 11 reserves, including four Phillies, to fill his NL roster to 28 players. The four Phillies were catcher Bob Boone, second baseman Dave Cash, shortstop Larry Bowa and third baseman Mike Schmidt. Earlier, the fans had selected Philadelphia outfielder Greg Luzinski as an All-Star starter.

Anderson also named two of his own players, outfielder Ken Griffey and first baseman Tony Perez. With the fans' previous selections of Cincinnati's three other infielders, second baseman Joe Morgan, shortstop Dave Concepcion and third baseman Pete Rose, the NL could field an all-Cincinnati infield sometime in the game. The fans also named Cincinnati outfielder George Foster to the starting lineup.

The other reserves chosen by Anderson were third baseman Ron Cey and shortstop Bill Russell of Los Angeles, catcher Steve Swisher of the Chicago Cubs and outfielders Cesar Cedeno of Houston, Al Oliver of Pittsburgh and Bake McBride of St. Louis.

Anderson agreed with the fans' overall balloting, choosing the runners-up in the voting at each position. At shortstop, Bowa, the second choice, and Russell, the third pick, were both named to the squad. Boone was the second leading vote-getter at catcher, while Swisher, the Cubs' mandatory one representative on the squad, was the seventh choice in the fans' balloting.

In the outfield voting, McBride, hitting .342, and

KEN GRIFFEY

TONY PEREZ

Griffey, batting .334, were the top runners-up. Oliver finished ninth in the balloting but leads the major leagues in hitting with a .363 average. Anderson passed over Lou Brock of St. Louis, Rick Monday of Chicago and Garry Maddox of Philadelphia to get to Oliver, the one Pittsburgh representative on the team.

Anderson didn't name any Cincinnati or Philadelphia pitchers for his eight-man pitching staff. The NL pitchers selected were Randy Jones of San Diego, who won his 16th game Thursday, Tom Seaver and Jon Matlack of the New York Mets, Rick Rhoden of Los Angeles, Woodie Fryman of Montreal, John Montefusco of San Francisco, Ken Forsch of Houston and Andy Messersmith of Atlanta. Because of an injury, Messersmith was replaced by Dick Ruthven of Atlanta.

The NL starters will be Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench, first baseman Steve Garvey of Los Angeles, Morgan, Concepcion, Rose, outfielders Foster, Luzinski and Dave Kingman of the Mets.

Padres' Jones keeps sinking NL batters

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer
Randy Jones has the drop on National League batters.

"His sinker falls four to eight inches," says San Diego pitching coach Roger Craig. "It's unlike anyone's I've ever seen in baseball."

Jones' bag of pitching tricks is so complete that even his sinkers have different character. Usually, all you do is wind up beating the ball into the dirt — which is what the Cubs did against the ultra-successful San Diego left-hander Thursday while losing 6-3.

Jones' sinker ball was in such rare form against the Cubs that the Padres only made five outfield putouts all day.

Not incidentally, San Diego's breadwinner captured his 16th victory of the season — a National League record before All-Star competition. He thinks the accomplishment has earned him a start in the inter-league competition next Tuesday night in Philadelphia.

"I think 16 wins is enough work for half a season," Jones said after fashioning his seven-hitter against the Cubs. "Now I'd like to start the All-Star game."

In the other National League games Thursday night, the New York Mets beat the Atlanta Braves 5-2 and the Houston Astros tripped the Montreal Expos 7-6. In the American League, the Baltimore Orioles outscored the Oakland A's 9-6; the Boston Red Sox turned back the Minnesota Twins 8-4; the New York Yankees blanked the Chicago White Sox 6-0 and the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Texas Rangers 5-4 in 13 innings.

Thursday's victory was the fourth straight for Jones and the 11th in his last 12 decisions. He struck out six batters and walked two. He was aided by two balks and one wild pitch by Chicago pitchers, who contributed to two San Diego runs.

The Padres, snapping a three-game losing streak, jumped on Chicago starter Bill Bonham, 6-7, in the third inning, clustering five singles for four runs and ending a scoreless string by Chicago pitchers at 31 innings.

Mets 5, Braves 2

Wayne Garrett ripped a two-run single, capping a four-run fifth inning rally as New York downed Atlanta behind Tom Seaver's six-hitter. Seaver and Atlanta rookie right-hander Frank LaCorte were locked in a scoreless duel after four innings before the Mets exploded, aided by LaCorte's costly throwing error.

Astros 7, Expos 6

Jose Cruz' bases-loaded single with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning brought home Enos Cabell with the winning run as Houston edged Montreal. Cruz' hit followed a single by Cabell and intentional walks to Bob Watson and Leon Roberts.

Orioles 9, A's 6

Ken Singleton drove in four runs with a bases-loaded double and a sacrifice fly as Baltimore defeated Oakland. Wayne Garland won his 10th game against only one loss, although he needed relief help from Dyer Miller in the seventh inning.

Red Sox 8, Twins 4

Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs with his 15th homer and a single and Carlton Fisk broke out of a slump with three hits, powering Boston over Minnesota. Yastrzemski singled across a run in the first and then belted a two-run homer into the Boston bullpen in the third. Yastrzemski hit only 14 homers all last season.

Yankees 6, White Sox 0

A three-run homer by Roy White backed the seven-hit pitching of Ken Holtzman and gave New York its victory over Chicago. The victory was the second for Holtzman since he was acquired from Baltimore, raising his season's record to 7-6 and giving the Yankees their seventh straight victory over Chicago. White Sox starter Rich Gossage, 5-7, took the defeat.

Brewers 5, Rangers 4

Gorman Thomas' two-run double capped a three-run 13th-inning rally, lifting Milwaukee over Texas. After the Rangers had taken a 4-2 lead in the top of the 13th on a pinch-hit RBI single by Gene Cline and Jim Sundberg's squeeze bunt, the Brewers won it in their half of the inning on an RBI bunt single by Bill Sharp and Thomas' hit over left fielder Tom Grieve's head.

Rookies Wynegar, Randolph on team

Youth heads AL all-star reserves

NEW YORK (AP) — Butch Wynegar, who would become the youngest All-Star participant if he plays, and Willie Randolph, the first rookie ever listed on an All-Star ballot, were among the 11 reserves named today to complete the 28-man American League All-Star team.

Wynegar, the Minnesota Twins' prize catcher, will be 20 years, three months, 29 days old Tuesday night, when the AL meets the National League at Philadelphia in the 47th All-Star Game.

Randolph, second baseman for the New York Yankees, already broke ground when he was listed on the ballot. He finished second to Baltimore's Bobby Grich in the fans' voting.

Boston Manager Darrell Johnson named two other Yankees, frontrunners in the AL East, to the squad — first baseman Chris Chambliss and outfielder Mickey Rivers. He also named a trio of players from Kansas City, the leader in the AL West — outfielders Hal McRae and Amos Otis and shortstop Fred Patek.

Also selected for the AL team, which has lost 12 of the last 13 midseason games, were catcher Carlton Fisk and first baseman Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, Baltimore shortstop Mark Belanger and Milwaukee third baseman Don Money.

Six of the 11 reserves have been selected for the All-Star Game in the past. Patek was on the team in 1972, Money in 1974 and McRae in 1975. Otis has made the

All-Star team four times. Fisk has been given the honor three times and Yastrzemski will be participating in the game for the 13th time.

Johnson mainly selected runner-ups from the All-Star balloting, with the exception of McRae, who finished eighth in the outfield voting but is the AL's leading designated hitter at .338, and Wynegar, who was fifth in the balloting for catchers. But Wynegar led all write-in candidates in both leagues with 561,488 votes.

Six Yankees are on the complete AL squad, which consists of the reserves, pitchers chosen by Johnson, and eight starters selected by the fans. Yankees catcher Thurman Munson was the fans' choice, while pitchers Catfish Hunter and Sparky Lyle were two of Johnson's nine pitching picks.

The other pitchers on the squad are Mark Fydrich of Detroit, Rollie Fingers of Oakland, Rich Gossage of the Chicago White Sox, Dave LaRoche of Cleveland, Frank Tanana of California, Luis Tiant of Boston and Bill Travers of Milwaukee.

George Brett of Kansas City, the AL's top hitter, was picked by the fans as the starting third baseman. The other electees were first baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota, second baseman Grich, shortstop Toby Harrah of Texas and outfielders Fred Lynn of Boston and Ron LeFlore and Rusty Staub of Detroit.

Look out league: Morgan says Reds finally getting healthy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bad news for the National League: "We're getting healthy now," says Joe Morgan of the world champion Cincinnati Reds.

That comes as soothing news to the Big Red Machine faithful, who fret that a 5½-game lead over Los Angeles is too close for comfort.

"Considering the circumstances, there is nothing wrong with that record," says Morgan. "I don't see cause for concern."

Perhaps spoiled by a whopping 108-victory season in 1975 and a 20-game margin over runner-up Los Angeles, Reds fans have been restless for a repeat of last year's runaway.

Currently on their longest winning streak of the season, a modest five-game string, the Reds are showing signs of leaving the launching pad.

"Once we get our eight regulars back, you'll see a different ball club," vows Morgan, who, despite missing 15 games, is threatening to become the first second baseman since Jackie Robinson to drive in more than 100 runs.

Manager Sparky Anderson, who contends Cincinnati has the best eight-man lineup in baseball, says the Reds have been only up to 75 per cent of their potential due to injuries.

"I feel we're very fortunate," said Anderson Thursday as the Reds prepared for a four-game weekend series with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I don't feel we have played anywhere like we did last year," he added.

The Reds' 51-31 record is not far off their pace of last year when they stood 56-29 at the All-Star break.

Morgan likes the Reds position. "We always play better during the second half of the season," he said. Since his arrival from Houston in 1972, Cincinnati has been baseball's most devastating club down the stretch.

The Reds wiped out a 10½-game lead by the Dodgers in early July of 1973 with a searing second half drive. They won 56 of their last 81 in 1973, went 53-28

Frustrated golf at Birkdale

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Although no longer a surprise, the world's best golfers are finding that strange things can happen when they hit a golf ball in Britain.

The type of golf being seen at Royal Birkdale in the 105th British Open this week is not the kind seen in the United States.

The thick, bushy rough that guards every fairway, the deep bunkers, the weird bounces off humpy terrain and the unpredictable breezes make every swing an adventure. Nothing is routine.

It has provided quite a bit of devilish entertainment for record crowds of British fans...and a fairway full of frustration for the golfers.

Only Severiano Ballesteros, a 19-year-old Spaniard, who is one of the top players in Europe, managed to escape most of the pitfalls with a second 69 Thursday for a 138 total and a two-stroke lead over American Johnny Miller after two rounds. Ballesteros did it by hitting the ball to the center of the fairways, then directly to the green.

Just seven other golfers managed to break the two-round par of 144 on the 7,001-yard course that softened to lower scores slightly on the second day as the field of 155 was cut to 82 with a score of 152 the cutoff.

American Hubie Green managed a 142 and Ray Floyd, another American, with a 67, was in at 143. But Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Jerry Pate and Tom Kite could only match par 144. Tom Weiskopf had a 145, Hale Irwin 146 and Arnold Palmer and Tom Watson 147. Carl Higgins, a little-known assistant club pro from Dallas, also had a 67 for 144.

would continue to teach classes in other area cities (Bainbridge, Hillsboro and Greenfield) and would continue to hold the Buckeye State Karate tournament in Washington C.H. on an annual basis.

Conaway was the force behind the karate tournament last March at Miami Trace High School which attracted 400 karate enthusiasts including 107 blackbelts from the Midwest.

Since opening his school eight years ago, Conaway has produced 23 blackbelts. He has also won 32 trophies for his participation in karate tournaments during his career.

Although Conaway cited lack of time as his reason for closing the local school, there is also an apparent rift between he and at least one of his former students.

"I think my record and the school's record speak for itself and warn that I do not recommend any instructors to the people of Washington C.H. at this time. And, I know I have no blackbelts that hold an instructors certificate," Conaway said.

Conaway may have been referring to a former student Neil Shirkey, who recently opened a school at the Ohio National Guard Armory in Washington C.H.

Conaway added, "... simply because a man holds a blackbelt does not make him an instructor or even qualify him to do so."

Taiwan team heads for Montreal

Canadian Olympic ban blasted

MONTREAL (AP) — Olympic officials strove for a last-minute compromise agreement with the Canadian government today as Taiwan's Olympics team, center of a political controversy, headed for Montreal.

A group of 36 members of the Taiwan Olympic team, including approximately 20 athletes, Montreal, where the delegation was supposed to arrive later today.

Lawrence S. Ting, chief of member of the commission, said: "I do not think there will be any move to make the athletes compete under the name of

'There are two Germanys, two Koreas . . . why should there not be two Chinas?'

Taiwan's Olympic mission, said during the stop in Los Angeles that he was hopeful the Canadian government would abide by IOC regulations.

"In 1936, Hitler was trying to intervene in the Olympic Games in Germany," Ting said. "After the IOC's strong representation, Hitler changed his mind and respected IOC rules. So I really hope the Canadian leaders will come to their senses, turn around, if they are not worse than Hitler in terms of sensibility."

Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, called a hurried meeting of his tripartite commission, made up of delegates from the IOC, the international sports federations and the national Olympic committees. He had hoped to find a compromise to put to the Canadian government before the Taiwanese plane touched down.

The Olympic Games, scheduled to begin July 17, could be threatened if agreement was not reached over the Taiwanese.

Willi Daume of Germany, a vice-president of the IOC and a Taiwan, or Formosa. We recognize them as the Republic of China. But we shall try to find some sort of compromise."

In 1969, when Montreal bid for the Games, the Canadian government pledged free entry for all national Olympic committees recognized by the IOC. Canada now is threatening to ban the Taiwanese following diplomatic pressure by the Communist Chinese government in Peking.

Mainland China has been gathering a lot of support from the international sports federations and from Asian Olympic committees in its bid for Olympic recognition. But Peking insists that Taiwan be kicked out of the Games — and most of the 70-strong IOC stand firm against that.

Henry Hsu, IOC member for Taiwan, said he has no objection to athletes from Communist China competing in the Olympics, but argued they should be a separate body.

"There are two Germanys, and two Koreas," Hsu said. "Why should there not be two Chinas?"

LORD KILLANIN

arrived in Los Angeles Thursday night. After a two-hour stopover, the group took off for Chicago, the second leg on its journey to

Girtons, Craigs dominate Babe Ruth stars

Girtons and Craigs dominated the 1976 Babe Ruth All-Star team selections.

Both Girtons and Craigs place five players on the all-star squad which will compete in its own tournament July 17-18 and July 24-25 at Rossmann Field.

Shawn Riley, Shane Riley, Bill Hanners, Don Hyer and Devik Hargo were named from the Girton team which is currently leading the league standings.

Craigs, which has completed its season with a 10-2 mark and still has a chance to win the league title outright, place Dean Faris, Mike Eddlemon, Tom Dean, Dee Hart Foster and David Hennessey on the all-star squad.

Willis Insurance placed two players on the team in Cecil Sizemore and David Ross.

Mark Smith (Sabina), Dennis Combs

(Good Hope), and Carl Riley (Bloomington) round out the 15-man squad.

In case of injury, three alternates were selected for the team. They were Wendell Cauley of Girtons, Steve Southern of Bloomington and Boggs of Sabina.

Gene Stillings and Buck Cauley, coaches of last year's champion Girton team, will manage this year's all-stars.

Cage merger problems

NEW YORK (AP) — The consolidation of the National and American Basketball Associations, announced at Hyannis, Mass. last month, has run into some stumbling blocks along the road from a handshake agreement to a legally binding contract.

Those problems are serious enough for the NBA to tell the members of its five-man advisory committee to set aside July 19 for a special meeting to deal with the issues, should they not be resolved by then.

One issue is the status of a number of former ABA players who are not on the list for the NBA dispersal draft. NBA owners say the four ABA teams seeking to enter the merged league had agreed to settle any legal disputes which might arise involving these players, but this has not yet been achieved.

One of the players involved is Lonnie Shelton, the New York Knicks' top draft pick. The Knicks had called a news conference Wednesday, reportedly to announce the signing of Shelton. But because they have not yet received full legal clearance, the conference was not held.

Shelton played college ball at Oregon State last season.

Jeff youth league

Jeff Fire Department breezed to an 18-2 win over Fayette County Bank Thursday in Jeffersonville Youth League action.

Ronnie Smith took the win for the Fire Department and smacked a home run. Lowell Miller, Dwight Gordon and Lenhard Taylor all had triples.

In Thursday's other game, Jeff Royal Blue tightened its hold on first place in the league with a 7-1 win over Al's Shell.

Tracy Tyree was the winning pitcher and he helped his own cause with a triple and a single.

Jeff Royal Blue is now 7-2 on the season. The Colonial Sawdusters are a close second with a 5-2 mark followed by the Fire Department (5-4), Fayette County Bank (4-5), Al's Shell (2-5) and Thomas Lumber (2-6).

Morrow-Huffman Funeral Home holds a 3-2 record over Davis Drug in two-team biddy league while Fayette County Bank holds a 3-2 mark over the Colonial Sawdusters in the two-team girls' league.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THIS RECTANGLE HOME CONTAINS two bedrooms and an L-shaped living-dining area adjacent to the U-shaped kitchen counter. In the midst of this space is a free-standing masonry fireplace-barbecue unit, which provides a visual separation between the front living area and the cooking space. A slab-on-grade masonry house, this home is designed for warm climate living. Plan HA934R has 1,008 square feet of space plus a porch and garage. It was designed by Jan Reiner and for further information write him—enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope—at 1000-52nd St., St. Petersburg, Fla., 33710.

The WEEDERS GUIDE

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

The growing popularity of hanging baskets for plants has led to the development of attractive, decorative supporting brackets. One hardware firm is producing brackets with hammered finish in black and in gold, in sizes 5 by 7 inches, and 9 by 11 inches.

Hanging baskets are a fine way to add color or greenery to many places indoors, outdoors, on porches or beneath the eaves.

Recently our daughter, Rhoda, now a macrame enthusiast, fashioned a plant harners of fiber for me. Now it holds a Swedish ivy at the den window.

Mesh plant containers have been in use for a long time, but for outdoor use containers that do not dry as quickly are better. Containers made of plastic, metal, wood, pottery and clay are good. It is advisable to set plants in these hanging baskets in a loose, well-drained soil mix with bottom drainage.

Water often because hanging baskets under sheltering eaves or trees do not get dew or light rain. Sun shining on the sides of the container warms the soil more than it would a flower border. Further, because of wind and breezes around the open plant the humidity is lower than that of plants near the ground or other plants.

These factors mean increased water loss from leaves and soil, making regular and frequent watering important, even to daily watering in dry weather.

For most efficient watering, take down the plant. Put it in a tub of water for a while, then hang it back up. If dripping is a problem, drain before re-hanging. If the container is equipped with a saucer let it catch the drip, but do not consider the saucer a reservoir for watering plants.

If removal is difficult, water the hanging baskets in place. Fill the top sufficiently for the water to drain through. If the soil is so dry that it has pulled away from the sides of the container, water may run through without properly wetting the soil. Avoid such drying, but if it happens, take down the container and soak thoroughly. Or you can water every couple of hours for a while until the soil has expanded to fill the pot.

Because more frequent watering is needed, hanging basket fertilizer washes out more rapidly. In summer, apply a soluble fertilizer about every two weeks (follow label instructions) or use newer, long-lasting pellets.

It is better to fertilize about a day after plants have been watered normally. Avoid feeding when the soil is dry.

There are many plants for hanging baskets. We have written about ivy and foliage and other house plants for hanging baskets. Annuals also flourish — petunias, marigold, portulaca, lantana and verbena in full sun; begonias, impatiens, geraniums or fuschia in semi-shade; Swedish ivy, wandering jew, myrtle, ajuga and English ivy in shade, with little sun.

LADS AND LASSIES 4-H

Camp Clifton Improvement Fund was the main topic for the regular meeting of the Lads and Lassies 4-H Club held in Eber School. The group voted to give $10.00 to this project.

The business session was conducted by Jim McCoy, vice president in the absence of president Brenda Steinhauer who is on the 4-H Citizenship Short Course in Washington D.C. this week. Chip Wilt led the pledges. Karen Kiger, secretary, called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting.

All member taking market livestock projects are to have health papers turned in on July 17 at Mahan Hall and make thier project entries at this time. Breeding livestock project books are due July 17. Market hogs, steers and market lamb project books are due at the Extension Office by August 6. Projects for the Ohio State Fair entries must be made by July 15, and signed by Jack Sommers, County Extension Agent, or John Gruber.

If more than one member of a family is taking livestock projects each person must have their own health paper; health papers for the family will not be accepted.

The group will meet at the Pizza Hut on July 13 at 7:45 p.m. for a pizza party. Refreshments were served by Brenda Joseph.

Retail sales rise during past year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Retail sales in the state rose five per cent over a year but dropped five per cent from the previous month after the register totals were counted in May.

The Center for Business and Economic Research at Ohio State University released the figures Thursday.

For the first five months of the year, sales by retailers increased 12 per cent over a similar period the year before.

Motor vehicle dealers experienced the strongest surge of sales, 38 per cent, with the related automotive supply stores at a 29 per cent increase for year-to-year comparisons. Thirteen of 25 kinds of businesses checked declined over the year, but fuel dealers, state liquor stores and men's clothing stores experienced lower sales in the first five months of 1976.

Sales are checked in 11 cities in Ohio.

Ohio had 60 generals and 800,000 men and women in uniform in World War II.

Moving can be very troublesome. Especially when you re off to settle the wilderness.

The roads were terrible. No restaurants along the way. Why, the trip itself took months.

But, if you were willing, the government would give you land. Land that was bought and paid for with money raised from Americans taking stock in their country.

So thousands had a little hand in every homestead.

Today, millions of Americans are still taking stock in their country by buying U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because whether you purchase Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan at work, or through the Bond-A-Month Plan where you save, you're putting your money where it counts the most. For you and for your country.

So buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

They'll put your savings on the right road.

Now E Bonds pay 6 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years. (4 1/2% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deducted until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Children's librarian hired

Husband, wife team heading up library

A husband and wife team are now heading up the Carnegie Public Library in Washington C.H.

Eric Halverson, 222 Ogle St., was recently employed by the Carnegie Public Library board of trustees for the position of head librarian, replacing Mrs. Kristine Amsbary.

Soon after his appointment, the board of trustees, which is striving to upgrade and expand library services, employed Halverson's wife, Kathy, as the children's librarian.

The board felt that there was a need for someone to direct the children's aspect of the library.

Having specialized in children's literature, programming and services while in college, Mrs. Halverson received her masters degree in library science from the University of Kentucky and completed her undergraduate work at the University of Denver.

Originally from Massachusetts, Mrs. Halverson worked for two years in a public library branch in Youngstown, Ohio, before moving to Washington C.H.

She stated that she plans to utilize the library staff in a cooperative effort. "Most of the staff has been to library workshops and are very enthusiastic about their work in the library. We've planned some innovative things for the children's program. We're hoping to get people from the community to come to the library and put on shows, perhaps a magician's act or a clown routine, for the children," she said.

Camp Gipiwa slates open house Sunday

The first open house in 10 years has been scheduled for Sunday at Camp Gipiwa, on the banks of Rattlesnake Creek, near New Martinsburg.

The camp is a favorite site for outings of the Girl Scouts. A hilly, wooded area of 37 acres, the camp is 11 miles south of Washington C.H. Purchased in Jan., 1966, the camp hosted an open house in September of that year. Although the camp has been used continuously for Girl Scouting activities since its purchase, this is only the second open house.

Tours of the facility will be conducted at 2 and 5 p.m. Area Girl Scouts will escort visitors throughout the camp. Camp equipment and facilities will be displayed, and light refreshments will be served.

The Scouts leading the tours will answer questions about the camp or about Girl Scouting.

Girls, pines and water provided the basis for the camp name which was offered by Girl Scout Debbie Foy in 1965. She took the first two letters of each of the camp's prime assets (Gi-pi-wa) to create the name. Although Miss Foy is now Mrs. Michael Baughn and the camp is 10 years older, its purpose and its name convey the same meaning they did then.

The camp was purchased from Melvin Williams by the National Girl Scout Council. Funds were provided by cookie sales projects and a large donation from a New York resident.

To reach Camp Gipiwa from Washington C.H. visitors should take Ohio 41-S to Washington-New Martinsburg Road. At the traffic light in New Martinsburg, they should turn right onto Zimmerman Road. The camp is approximately a mile and a half from New Martinsburg on the left side of Zimmerman Road.

After 35 years in job

Auto title deputy retires from post

After 35 years of service as the chief deputy in the auto title section of the Fayette County Clerk of Courts office, Miss Jean West, 525 Columbus Ave., has retired.

Fellow employees recently honored Miss West with a party and dinner at the Valley House restaurant, Chillicothe, and presented her with a wristwatch.

With no definite plans for the future except to catch up on household work that she was unable to do while working, Miss West said that she would miss her job.

"After working in a public office for so long, I couldn't help but miss the friends that I've made and especially the girls in the office," she said.

Janet Kelley will be taking over the position vacated by Miss West's retirement.

The position includes issuing titles, recording mortgages on automobiles, trucks, mobile homes, trailers, travel trailers, boats and motors.

"There was quite a change in my job over the years. When I first started we only had to deal with automobiles, trucks and bills of sale," Miss West commented.

Civil war still raging in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christian spokesmen claimed today that their forces were attacking 1,200 trapped Palestinians and leftist Lebanese Moslems in the northern coastal village of Enfe.

"Their backs are to the sea," said one spokesman. "Our guns are pounding them from all directions and blocking their attempts to escape by boat."

Bodies of attacking Christians, fleeing Moslems and villagers caught in the middle dotted the northern coast as the civil-war slaughter raged unabated for the fifth day in the part of the country.

Security forces and other sources estimated that 285 persons were killed and 400 wounded in the past 24 hours, raising the estimated toll in 15 months of Moslem-Christian warfare to nearly 32,000 dead.

Palestinian leader Yasir Arafat asked for an Arab summit meeting in Cairo Monday to consider the "dangerous developments in Lebanon," the Moslems' Beirut Radio reported. The Arab foreign ministers are scheduled to meet in the Egyptian capital Monday to discuss the Lebanese situation, but the broadcast said Arafat wants the kings and presidents to meet.

The Palestinians and their leftist Lebanese allies invaded the Christian enclave between Beirut and Tripoli Monday in an attempt to force the Christians to lift their siege of the Palestinians' Tal Zaatar camp on the southeast side of Beirut. But the Christians counter-attacked and began taking territory and villages north of their enclave from the Moslems.

Gospel sing scheduled

GREENFIELD — The Greenfield Jaycees are sponsoring its first annual summer gospel sing at McClain High School July 17 during the Greene Countrie Town Festival.

Three major groups have been booked for the event. They are the Singing Echoes of Cleveland, Tenn., the Chords from Youngstown, Ohio, and the Crownsmen from Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Singing Echoes are one of the fastest rising groups in the business today. The Chords are one of the most versatile groups in the gospel music field and have appeared on a number of television programs, including the Mike Douglas Show. They perform a variety of contemporary gospel and sacred ballads. The Crownsmen are well-known for their outstanding performance of old and new gospel music.

The gospel sing will be one of the
